

Faculty Development

The Center for Innovation in Teaching and Learning fosters excellence in teaching and learning by providing faculty with tools, development opportunities, workshops, and consultation services.

Faculty looking for consultation or support in any of the following areas are encouraged to contact the CITL: course or curriculum design; active or collaborative learning pedagogies; instructional approaches in new course contexts; instructional media or technology; online or hybrid teaching; writing assignment design; digital scholarship for research or teaching; peer-to-peer learning; instructor presentation skills; student communication skills; assessment of student learning.

Peggy Kane, Director of the Center for Innovation in Teaching and Learning, may be contacted at 610-758-6952 or make@lehigh.edu.
