Offered at the graduate level, American Studies is the interdisciplinary study of American thought, literature, and culture—both past and present. Born in the early years of the Cold War and with an implied commitment to American exceptionalism, American Studies has since transformed itself into a multifaceted critical examination of United States society. Comparative frameworks along with close attention to applying cultural and literary theory to such matters as violence, citizenship, democracy, community, poverty and prosperity, politics, race, and gender in the United States make American Studies an intellectually sophisticated yet practical course of graduate study.

M.A. IN AMERICAN STUDIES

A Master of Arts degree in American Studies is offered in the College of Arts and Sciences. Candidates for the master’s degree must complete at least 30 credit hours, 18 of which must be at the 400 level.

Two social science courses  6
AMST 401  Special Topics in American Studies  3

Remaining courses for the master’s degree will be divided between:

AMST 490  Master’s Thesis  2

Other American Studies courses chosen at the student’s discretion and with the approval of the program director

Total Credits  30

1  Humanities courses include those offered in the departments of English, Art and Architecture, and Religion Studies. Social Studies courses include those offered in the departments of History, Political Science, Sociology and Anthropology, and Journalism and Communications.

2  To fulfill the thesis requirement students will write a long work of scholarship or two shorter papers, or create a documentary film.

GRADUATE CERTIFICATE IN DOCUMENTARY FILM

Designed to augment social science and humanities graduate students’ education and training for employment inside and outside of the academy, this certificate program covers 1) the historical development and distinctive attributes of documentary film, including the genre’s impressive capacity for drawing large viewerships and, with that, communicating research-based knowledge to general publics; and 2) the production of documentary text—from conceiving of a topic and “storyboarding” a narrative; to taking interviews; to composing and filming a variety of shots; and to editing visual and audio material into final digital form.

The program broadly defines documentary film to facilitate understanding and production of texts from Youtube-like social media to feature-length theatrically-released films.

Completion of 12 credits, no more than 6 credits at the 300-level.

AMST 425  Community Study Through Documentary Film  3

AMST 433  Documentary Film Production  3

Two courses in consultation with Graduate Certificate Director;  6

possible courses include:

HIST 438  Techniques in Public History
HIST 305  Public History
HIST 336  Bethlehem and the Lehigh Valley
HIST 337  History and Community Memory
JOUR 325  Seminar in Journalism and Communication Issues
