The Center for Promoting Research to Practice (CPRP) is a resource for distilling and bringing research findings to the field. Investigators conducting research have published the outcomes of findings in professional journals and outlets. In addition, the CPRP initiates dissemination to parents, teachers, and other practitioners in a format that more easily affects practice.