English

The Department of English has developed a focus on Literature and Social Justice, the outcome of a multi-year effort to revitalize the traditional period-based approach to literary studies. Our classes foster a series of related activities: an exploration of how studying literature contributes to questions of social justice; an immersion in historical periods informed by strong theoretical commitments; an engagement with contemporary literature and culture; and an emphasis on theorized pedagogy, reflective practice, and the scholar-teacher model. Our faculty interact with Lehigh’s varied interdisciplinary programs, including Africana Studies; Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies; Global Studies; Health, Medicine and Society; and Film and Documentary Studies.

UNDERGRADUATE MAJOR IN ENGLISH

Minimum number of hours: 36

The major in English is designed to give students experience in reading analyzing, and formulating thoughts about people and ideas that matter; an understanding of how literary artists find the appropriate words to express their thoughts and feelings; and a basic knowledge of the historical development of British, American, and world literature.

Students who major in English go on to careers in teaching, writing, law, business, science, medicine, engineering—and many others. The analytical and communication skills acquired in the study of literature and writing will be of use in almost any profession or human activity. Depending on their interests, abilities, and career plans, students who major in English are encouraged to consider double majors or one or two minor fields. The major in English is flexible enough to allow cross-disciplinary study with ease. The student majoring in English chooses from an extensive list of courses. Only one course is required of all students, the introduction to the major, English 100. To ensure breadth and depth of knowledge, each English major is required to take five courses at the 300 level, typically one in each of the four historical periods listed below and one as an elective. One of the five courses must be designated as WI. Double majors may complete the Writing Intensive (WI) requirement in either major.

The English major requires a minimum of 36 credits.

No later than six months after completing their course work, candidates will take written and oral examinations in one major field and two minor fields.

Candidates write their dissertations after having their dissertation proposals approved by the department and being admitted to candidacy by the appropriate college.

ENGL Literature and Theory Courses
ENGL 499 Dissertation

Total Credits 2 42-48

1 Includes Exam Preparation and Dissertation.

2 Doctoral candidates with a Lehigh master’s degree are required to take eight courses and register for 42 credit hours beyond the M.A. Those entering the doctoral program with a master’s from another institution are required to take nine courses and register for 48 credit hours.

Graduate Certificate in Composition and Rhetoric
The Graduate Certificate in Composition and Rhetoric is awarded to students in the M.A. or Ph.D. programs in English when they complete a program of training in the theory and practice of composition-rhetoric consisting of 12 credit hours of course work. At least 8 credits must be in graduate seminars or independent studies: English 480 (3 cr.), 481 (3 cr., topic must be in rhetoric), 485 (2 cr.), 491 (1-3 cr.), or 495 (3 cr.). The other 4 credits may be in seminars, independent studies, and/or any combination of courses in pedagogy, field work, or research: English 486, 487, 488, or 489 (all 1 cr.).

Graduate students in the M.A. program in English will be able to complete the certificate requirements in four semesters alongside their M.A. coursework, by taking a total of 9 or 10 credits each semester; students who proceed from the M.A. to the Ph.D. can spread the courses over additional years. The certificate requires 12 credits of course work. At least 8 credits must be in graduate seminars or independent studies, including English 485 (2 cr., Introduction to Writing Theory); English 480 (3 cr., Composition and Rhetoric); English 481 (3 cr, Theory and Criticism, topic in rhetoric); English 495 (3 cr, Independent Study); or English 491 (1-3 cr, Special Topics in Comp-Rhet); and 4 credits may be in seminars, independent studies, and any combination of 1-credit courses in pedagogy, field work, or research: English 486, 487, 488 (new), and 489 (new), some of which may be repeated for credit.

Sample course of study for M.A. students. Courses for the certificate are italicized and labeled “Comp”; courses for the M.A. in Literature and Social Justice are labeled “Lit.”

Repeat Status: Course may be repeated.

ENGL 045 Conspiracy and Paranoia 4 Credits
Conspiracy theories seem to be everywhere these days--everywhere, of course, except in our own heads. Why does everybody else seem so paranoid? Can we tell an actual conspiracy from a crazy conspiracy theory? This class will use recent literature and some films to explore why everybody resorts to conspiratorial thinking and paranoid explanations for events large and small.

Attribute/Distribution: HE, HU, W

ENGL 060 (THTR 060) Dramatic Action 4 Credits
How plays are put together; how they work and what they accomplish. Examination of how plot, character, aural and visual elements of production combine to form a unified work across genre, styles and periods. Recommended as a foundation for further studies in design, literature, or performance.

Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 065 (THTR 065) Introduction to Playwriting 4 Credits
An introduction to writing for the stage, with an emphasis on creating characters, exploring story and structure, experimenting with theatrical language, and working within the context of theatrical history and the wider world. This course combines in-class exercises with seminar-style discussion of the student's work.

Attribute/Distribution: AL, CC, HU, W
ENGL 066 (FILM 066) The Slasher 4 Credits
The slasher has been one of the most enduring subgenres of horror, evolving and continuing to thrive since 1978’s Halloween. In this course, we will read some of the most important critical discussions of the slasher and watch films, from the 70s to the present, that embody both the core characteristics of the subgenre and its radical innovations. We will address what the slasher is, why it’s remained so popular, and what ethical and political questions it raises.
Attribute/Distribution: HE, HU, W

ENGL 089 Popular Literature 4 Credits
The form of literature that has been designated in one way or another as "popular," such as folklore and detective fiction. May be repeated for credit as content changes. Cannot be taken pass/fail.

ENGL 147 (FILM 147, WGSS 147) Made to Kill: Female Violence in Popular Film 4 Credits
Heroes. Monsters. Outlaws. Catsuits. In the wake of the second-wave feminist movement, U.S. films in the horror, thriller, and action/adventure genres began to represent women as perpetrators of violence more frequently and in new ways. This course examines how iconic films from the last four decades, such as The Silence of the Lambs, Alien, The Hunger Games and Wonder Woman, have both reflected and shaped the ongoing cultural debate about gender, sexuality and power.
Attribute/Distribution: HE, HU

ENGL 149 (FILM 149, WGSS 149) Sexbots and Terminators: Cinematic Fantasies of the Intelligent Machine 4 Credits
For decades, film and television narratives have represented human relationships with robots to explore existential issues in human life: love, sex, mortality, labor, domination, exploitation. Could robots solve the difficulties of human intimacy? Could artificial intelligence enable us to cheat death? What do sex robots reveal about misogyny? Why are human/AI relationships so frequently imagined in Western narratives as master/slave relationships? Films and TV shows may include The Matrix, Ex Machina, Her, Terminator 2, Black Mirror and Westworld.
Attribute/Distribution: HE, HU, W

ENGL 151 (FILM 151, GS 151) Global Cinema 4 Credits
This course introduces students to contemporary filmmakers from Asia and Africa who have been inspired by globalization, dealing with issues such as mass migration, ethnic conflict and civil war, transnational finance and technology, and ongoing social and economic inequities. The course will be divided into four geographical units, with a representative mix of art films, popular genres (Bollywood and Nollywood), and global science fiction and horror. The course will focus on U.S. film but will sometimes include the highly influential horror traditions of other countries.
Repeat Status: Course may be repeated.
Attribute/Distribution: HE, HU, W

ENGL 320 (AAS 320) Imagining Freedom: 19th-Century African American Literature and Politics 3-4 Credits
In the midst of slavery and its violent aftermath, African Americans dreamed of freedom. These imaginings of freedom are among the richest cultural legacies of the American people and a necessary part of any effort to understand our nation’s contradictory history. Students will read slave-narratives, novels, poems, protests against slavery and lynching, demands for political rights and women’s equality, calls for slave rebellion and appeals for inter-racial cooperation. Readings include Frederick Douglass, Harriet Jacobs, Sojourner Truth, Harriet Wilson, Charles Chesnutt.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 325 (AAS 325) The Harlem Renaissance: Early 20th-Century African American Literature, Art and Politics 3-4 Credits
Explore the extraordinary flowering of African American literary, artistic and political life in the early 20th century. Study masterpieces of African American literature, music, visual art, and political imagination. Consider how artists and activists represented the diversity of Black life in America and reimagined race relations during the Jim Crow era. Learn how works by Langston Hughes, Zora Neale Hurston, Bessie Smith, Aaron Douglas and many others can assist us in realizing the promise of racial justice.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

Repeat Status: Course may be repeated.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 328 (THTR 328) Topics in Shakespeare 3-4 Credits
This class explores why Shakespeare’s plays and poems still resonate today. We will focus in particular on how Shakespeare’s plays have been used to explore questions of gender, race and social class. We’ll read some of the “greatest hits” as well as a few lesser-known works, focusing first on how these texts were understood in the time they were written and then on why and how they inform our perspective today.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 329 Special Topics in Shakespeare and Film 3-4 Credits
This course explores how Shakespeare’s plays have been adapted into film. Despite being most celebrated for his language, Shakespeare’s work has been translated into the visual medium of cinema since the era of silent film -- and his popularity shows no sign of slowing down. The course pairs plays with multiple film adaptations, which use Shakespeare to explore contexts including Feudal Japan, Soviet Russia, Wall Street, and more.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 331 Milton 3-4 Credits
An introduction to John Milton’s poetry and prose emphasizing close reading and cultural contexts. Half of the course will be devoted to Paradise Lost, and particular attention will be paid to politics, religion, and gender.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 341 (EVST 341) Contemporary US Literature of Environmental Crises 3-4 Credits
This course addresses how contemporary US literature depicts toxic America and the environmental crises as well as the human (and other animal) tragedies that result from a variety of contemporary practices that deny connectivity to/deendence upon ecosystems. Students will engage with some of the most important novels written in the contemporary period that call readers to address human impact on the environment, to imagine alternative & less ruinous ways of being in the world, and to imagine more sustainable futures.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 357 Arthurian Legend 3-4 Credits
King Arthur had a powerful hold on the popular imagination for more than a thousand years, from Geoffrey of Monmouth's twelfth-century History of the Kings of Britain to Tracy Deonn's twenty-first-century novel Legendborn. In this course, we consider how reinventions of Arthurian legends both reflect and shape the values of their time—with a particular focus on gendered and classed norms of ethical behavior; ideals of justice, leadership, and the rule of law; and notions of nationality and ethnicity.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 358 Outcasts in Medieval Literature and Culture 3-4 Credits
This course investigates how late medieval English writing features multiple types of outcasts including lepers, beggars, heretics, religious recluses, and so-called lunatics. How do these categories of exclusion function both to critique and to promote forms of hierarchy that privilege men over women, the rich over the poor, the faithful over the heretic, and the sane over the mentally ill? How do current social, ethical, and political ideals create categories of exclusion that potentially resonate with the premodern past?
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 359 Sinners, Saints, and Heretics 3-4 Credits
Exploring how religion is linked to issues of gender, power, and identity, this course investigates the fascinating complexities of Christian belief and practice in medieval England. How does a culture that idealizes social unity come to justify the burning of heretics? How does it arrive at distinctions between perfect virgins and ordinary wives, between holy mendicants and slothful beggars? How do such identifications map on to current understandings of social identity and institutional power?
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, W

ENGL 360 Middle English Literature 3-4 Credits
Major literary works of the Middle English period by authors other than Chaucer. Emphasis on Piers Plowman, the Gawain/ Pearl Poet, and the metrical romances.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 361 (WGSS 361) Jane Austen 3-4 Credits
This course explores the writings, culture, and afterlives of Jane Austen, often considering the interrelations of Austen’s novels with various adaptations and variations of her stories. Students explore the efficacy, complexity, and social impact of Austen’s works through a variety of critical approaches to ask different questions about slavery and abolition, the French Revolution, British imperialism, and women's equality.
Attribute/Distribution: HE, HU, W

ENGL 362 Early Modern Genres and Authors 3-4 Credits
An examination of a sixteenth- or seventeenth-century author (such as Edmund Spencer, Margaret Cavendish, John Webster, or Thomas Middleton) or an exploration of a literary genre (such as utopian fiction, epic poetry, sonnets, revenge drama or romantic comedy) in its historical and cultural context. See course schedule for specific descriptions and titles.
Repeat Status: Course may be repeated.
Attribute/Distribution: HE, HU, W

ENGL 363 (WGSS 363) Gender and Sexuality in Early Modern Poetry 3-4 Credits
In sixteenth- and seventeenth-century England, poetry was a culturally significant literary form in which authors explored a range of pressing issues. Our readings will be drawn from canonical and non-canonical authors, and we will pay attention to how poetic form intersects with explorations of gender and sexuality. This study of gender and sexuality in the poetry of one historical period will enable us to think more broadly about how literary texts participate in—and help to shape—social and cultural norms.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 364 Special Topics in Early Modern Literature 3-4 Credits
An exploration of a specific topic in sixteenth- and seventeenth-century literature, such as gender, sexuality, religion, race, popular culture, or politics. See course schedule for specific descriptions and titles.
Repeat Status: Course may be repeated.
Attribute/Distribution: HE, HU, W

ENGL 365 Listening to/for Indigenous Voices in the Atlantic World 3-4 Credits
This course explores writing by and about Native Americans on both sides of the eighteenth-century Atlantic. We will discuss topics such as settler colonialism, indigenous agency, the “Last of . . .” trope, religion, and violence. Texts will include captivity narratives, early novels, memoirs, political writing, and other literary forms produced from the 1680s to the 1830s.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 366 Topics in British Eighteenth-Century Literature 3-4 Credits
The poetry, drama, fiction, and non-fictional prose of the long eighteenth century (1660-1800), with particular attention to how writers are shaped by and engage with the cultural issues of their time.
Repeat Status: Course may be repeated.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 367 Topics in Transatlantic Eighteenth-Century Literature 3-4 Credits
The poetry, drama, fiction, and non-fictional prose written in Britain and the Americas during the long eighteenth century (1660-1800), with particular attention to the transatlantic circulation of texts and ideas.
Repeat Status: Course may be repeated.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 368 Transatlantic Radicalism: Can We Remake the World? 3-4 Credits
In the 1790s, anything seemed possible to some writers on both sides of the Atlantic. “The earth was all before me,” Wordsworth wrote. Some novelists envisioned remaking the world, though their efforts to create new societies rarely treated all men and women equally. These progressive efforts, moreover, led other writers to struggle to hold in place a world that they felt was spiraling out of control.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W
ENGL 369 Romantic-Era Literature 3-4 Credits
This study of British Literature and Culture of the Romantic Era (1780-1830) will address specific questions of genre, theme or historical developments. Readings may cover issues such as slavery and abolition, the effect of the French Revolution on British Literature, the rights of women, scientific innovation, ethics, landscape aesthetics, and the gothic.
Repeat Status: Course may be repeated.
Attribute/Distribution: HE, HU, W

ENGL 372 Victorian Literature 3-4 Credits
This study of British Literature and Culture of the Victorian Age (1830-1901), including the Empire, will address specific questions of genre, theme, or historical developments. Readings may cover issues such as industry, imperialism, the cult of domesticity, aesthetics, the Woman Question, the Reform Acts, the place of the art and the artist, and modern nationalism.
Repeat Status: Course may be repeated.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 373 Early American Literature: Revolution and Nation 3-4 Credits
This class explores how early American novelists and poets—men and women, free and enslaved—thought about the revolutionary ideas that had founded the nation. How do novels and poetry think about liberty and freedom? How do they balance the claims of individuals and the claims of the community? How do they define the “people” or the “nation”—and who gets excluded from these categories?
Repeat Status: Course may be repeated.
Attribute/Distribution: HE, W

ENGL 375 Major Authors 1-4 Credits
The works of one or more major literary figures studied in depth.
Repeat Status: Course may be repeated.
Attribute/Distribution: HE, HU, W

ENGL 376 Topics in Early American Literature 3-4 Credits
American literature from settlement until the 1820s, emphasizing fiction, poetry, and non-fiction that helped form and contest American identities and national consciousness.
Repeat Status: Course may be repeated.
Attribute/Distribution: HE, HU, W

ENGL 377 American Romanticism 3-4 Credits
Literature from the antebellum United States viewed through the literary practices of sentimentalism (an ethos that values sympathy, empathy, and human contact) and the sublime (an aesthetic that attempts to create within readers a sense of the awe-inspiring, otherworldly, and terrifying aspects of life), as well as social conflicts over race, class, and gender.
Repeat Status: Course may be repeated.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W

ENGL 378 Topics in American Realism 3-4 Credits
Topics in American literature from the Civil War to the early twentieth century. Topics may include the evolution of literary genres and movements, including realism and naturalism. ENGL 392 Modern American Writing and the Problem of War 3-4 Credits
America has been at war continuously since 9/11 and almost continuously since the late 19th century. Explore writings by American novelists and poets (Twain, Hemingway, Cather, Dos Passos, Wright, H.D., and others) who revealed the catastrophic effects of modern warfare on our society. Study visionary political writings by early 20th-century activists who believed that economic justice and racial and gender equality required the abolition of war. Students will consider the relevance of these works to the challenges we face today.
Attribute/Distribution: CC, HE, HU, W
ENGL 393 Modernism, Mourning and Social Justice 3-4 Credits
Loss and disappointment come to us all. If we cannot mourn, we cannot heal or grow. Students will read American modernist masterpieces by Hemingway, Faulkner, H.D., Ellison and others. These writers explored intimate experiences of grief, like romantic disappointment or the death of a loved one. They also invented strategies for mourning collective injuries, like those inflicted by dynamics of racism, misogyny, and economic exploitation. Students will explore their own experiences of loss and develop strategies for sustaining political hope.
