Graduate Certificates in Engineering

Certificate Programs allow students to build relevant and timely skills in an area related to current technological challenges without committing to a full degree, or pursue training that complements your current path of graduate study. For information on available certificates and their requirements please visit our Certificate Programs in Engineering (https://engineering.lehigh.edu/academics/graduate/programs/certificate-programs-engineering/) website.